

We encourage you to consider the telephone privacy law in Indiana as a model for what might be done on the federal level. The law in Indiana has been effective in virtually eliminating phone sollicitaation. It is effective in stopping the unwanted sollicitations and not defeating the necessary and appropriate calls.